Education

University of Brussels (VUB)

December 2010

Ph.D. in Linguistics

Cognitive processes in Second Language Acquisition: The role of noticing, attention and awareness in processing words in written L2 input.

Honors: summa cum laude

University of Antwerp

2006

Teaching Certificate for Higher Secondary Education

Honors: magna cum laude

2003

MA in English & German Linguistics and Literature

Specialization in computational linguistics

Honors: magna cum laude

Dissertation topic: Any and its French Equivalents

University of Namur (FUNDP)

2001

BA in English & German Linguistics and Literature

Honors: summa cum laude

Erasmus exchange student at the Technical University Berlin from 2000 to 2001.

Employment

Michigan State University

July 2017 – present

Associate Professor, Second Language Studies

January 2011 – June 2017

Assistant Professor, Second Language Studies

University of Brussels (VUB)

October 2006 – September 2010

PhD Candidate in Linguistics

University of Antwerp

September 2004 – September 2006

Scientific Collaborator for E-Learning and Language Testing

Research

Awards

2021 Finalist of the AAAL First Book Award

Finalist in the American Association for Applied Linguistics First Book Award competition with the monograph “Eye tracking in second language acquisition and bilingualism: A research synthesis and methodological guide” (2020, Routledge).

2020 Best of MLJ: The Modern Language Journal Research Article Award

Award from The Modern Language Journal for the study “Should we listen or read? Modality effects in implicit and explicit knowledge”, published with Kathy MinHye Kim in The Modern Language Journal in 2019. The article was recognized by the Editorial Board Article Award committee as being of the highest quality, with the broadest potential impact on the field of second language learning and teaching.

2019 TESOL Award for Distinguished Research

Award from TESOL for the study “Incidental vocabulary learning in a natural reading context: An eye-tracking study”, published in Bilingualism: Language and Cognition. The article was selected by the TESOL organization as the best TESOL-related, empirical research article appearing in 2018. Award presented at a featured session at the TESOL Convention in Atlanta, GA in March 2019.

2018 Outstanding Graduate Program Community Award

This award was presented to the Second Language Studies Program in recognition of its excellent mentoring and professional development opportunities. The MSU Graduate School praised the SLS Program’s emphasis on ethical research practices, student-faculty research collaborations, support of special interest learning communities and research groups, and the outstanding placement record of graduates in national and international institutions.

Grants and Fellowships

Awarded

2020 Language Learning Dissertation Grant

Examining explicit and implicit word knowledge (Principal investigator; with SLS graduate student Bronson Hui)
Awarded $ 1,995.00 towards an online psycholinguistic experiment for Bronson Hui’s doctoral dissertation research.

2018 National Science Foundation Doctoral Dissertation Improvement Grant

Exploring the interface of implicit and explicit second-language knowledge: A longitudinal perspective (Principal investigator; with SLS graduate student Kathy MinHye Kim).
Awarded $18,188.00 to support a longitudinal study on implicit and explicit knowledge for Kathy MinHye Kim’s doctoral dissertation research.

2018 Educational Testing Service

Supporting young learners through reading aloud test items in listening assessment: Cognitive processes, perceived item comprehension, and actual performance (Principal Investigator; with SLS graduate student Bronson Hui).
Awarded $3,665.00 to support assessment research by Bronson Hui on the listening section of the TOEFL® Primary™ tests.

2018 College of Arts and Letters Faculty Summer Fellowship

Charting international students' linguistic competence (Principal investigator).
Awarded $7,000.00 to cover summer salary and project costs to disseminate research findings from a grant-funded project on the measurement of implicit and explicit knowledge.

2018 Humanities and Arts Research Program—Production

Conducting eye-tracking research in second language acquisition: A methodological guide (Principal investigator).
Awarded $3,434.00 to hire a research assistant during summer 2018 to proofread and copy-edit chapters of a methodological guide on eye-movement recording.

2017 Center for Language Teaching Advancement (CeLTA) Fellowship

Measuring ESL learners' language profiles: An individual differences approach (Principal investigator).
Awarded $1,820.00 to research the role of individual differences in the development of implicit and explicit knowledge among a large sample of ESL learners.

2017 Language Learning Roundtable Grant

One tool, many applications: Robust eye-tracking research across SLA disciplines (Principal investigator; with Paula Winke Co-principal investigator).
Awarded $9,998.00 to organize a Language Learning Roundtable titled "One tool, many applications: Robust eye-tracking research across SLA disciplines" to be held in conjunction with the 2018 conference of the American Association for Applied Linguistics.

2017 Language Learning Early Career Research Grant

Measuring implicit and explicit L2 knowledge: Synthesizing 12 years of research (Principal Investigator).
Awarded $10,000.00 to cover data collection and analysis of results from a large sample of Chinese ESL learners completing a battery of English language tests.

2016 College of Arts and Letters Faculty Summer Fellowship

Conducting eye-tracking research in second language acquisition: A methodological guide (Principal investigator).
Awarded $10,220.00 to cover summer salary and project costs to write a methodological guide on eye-movement recording.

2016 Language Learning Dissertation Grant

Incidental and intentional L2 vocabulary learning: Are they different? (Principal investigator; with SLS graduate student Ina Choi)

Awarded $ 2,000.00 towards an eye-tracking experiment for Ina Choi's doctoral dissertation research.

2015 Humanities and Arts Research Program—Development

Recording eye movements in second language research: A methodological guide (Principal investigator).

Awarded $ 20,191.00 toward course release in Fall 2015 to write a methodological guide on eye-movement recording.

2014 Fonds voor Wetenschappelijk Onderzoek – Vlaanderen [Research Foundation – Flanders]

Bridging the gap: Linking noticing and the implicit acquisition of grammatical subregularities in L2 German (Co-principal investigator with Alex Housen)

Awarded € 259,841.00 (ca. $ 326,000.00) towards a four-year research project on the noticing and implicit L2 learning of German verbs.

2014 Targeted Support Grant for Technology Development from the MSU Office of the Vice President for Research and Graduate Studies

Tone Perception Efficacy Study (Co-principal investigator with Catherine Ryu and Chin-Hsi Lin).

Awarded $ 51,567.00 towards a Chinese tone perception study conceived by Catherine Ryu.

2014 Dr. Delia Koo Global Faculty Endowment

A Cube2Cube (C2C) efficacy study: Toward developing game-centered Chinese language proficiency (Principal investigator).

Awarded $ 3,500.00 towards a Chinese tone perception training study conceived by Catherine Ryu.

2014 National Science Foundation Doctoral Dissertation Improvement Grant

Speech perception in bilingual and monolingual speakers under normal and adverse listening conditions (Principal investigator; with SLS graduate student Jens Schmidtke).

Awarded $ 15,106.00 towards two speech-perception experiments for Jens Schmidtke's doctoral dissertation research.

Invention

Picky Birds is a Mandarin Chinese tone perception app game that is designed to aid learners to perceive, discriminate, and identify the four major Mandarin tones inductively by playing a game. The app is based on an online training platform that was developed for the Tone Perception Efficacy Study (ToPES <http://cube2cube.cal.msu.edu>). I designed the tone-training and tone-testing sequences for the ToPES (Godfroid, Lin & Ryu, 2017, Language Learning).

Picky Birds is the product of a multi-disciplinary research and production team, directed by Dr. Catherine Ryu. The team consists of undergraduate game developers and programmers, user experience analysts, graphic designers, video artists, a sound designer, and an online education specialist. My role is to bring psycholinguistic expertise to the team and ensure the experimental research design meets high quality standards. Picky Birds is managed by MSU Technologies.

Research skills

Eye-tracking methodology

Co-director of the eye-tracking lab at Michigan State University (eyetrack.msu.domains), which is equipped with an EyeLink 1000 (from SR Research) and a Tobii TX300 TSE. Member of the MSU Eye-Tracking Research Group.

- Author of the book Eye tracking in second language acquisition and bilingualism: A research synthesis and methodological guide (published by Routledge, 2020)
- Strategic planning and daily management of the lab, shared responsibility for equipment
- Instructor of LLT 818, Eye-movement Registration in Second Language Acquisition Research
- In-depth and hands-on knowledge of eye-tracking technology, from experiment design and programming, to data collection and analysis.
- Visiting scholars to the lab:
 - Dr. Carolina Bernales, Pontificia Universidad Católica de Valparaíso, Chile (March-April 2016)
 - Dr. Sungmook Choi, Kyungpook National University, Korea (August 2019-August 2020)
 - Max Pacheco Leal, Pontificia Universidad Católica de Valparaíso, Chile (January-April 2020)
 - Eva Puimège, KU Leuven, Belgium (August 2019-November 2019)

Statistical techniques

Excellent knowledge of applied statistics:

- Basics of statistical inference *
- Analysis of variance *
- Multivariate analysis of variance
- Discriminant function analysis
- Cluster analysis
- Exploratory factor analysis
- Confirmatory factor analysis
- Structural equation modeling
- Linear regression (LM) *
- Binary and multinomial logistic regression (GLM) *
- Mixed effects models (LMM and GLMM) *
- Introduction to R *
- Equivalence testing *
- Introduction to Bayesian statistics *

Instructor of two quantitative research methods courses at Michigan State University, in which I cover the techniques marked with *. The courses are LLT 873, Quantitative Research in Second Language Studies, and LLT 841 (co-taught with Shawn Loewen), Advanced Quantitative Research in Second Language Studies.
Member of the SLS student-led reading group Donuts & Distributions.

Professional development

National Center for Faculty Development & Diversity Post-Tenure Pathfinders Program

I completed a 12-week online program designed for recently tenured faculty to pause, engage in a discovery process about what is possible in my next chapter, and build a support network to move powerfully in that new direction. The program helped me pick a post-tenure pathway and connect with new mentors that can help me reach my goals.

National Center for Faculty Development & Diversity Faculty Success Program

I completed a 12-week online bootcamp designed to increase research productivity, improve time management skills, and live a full and healthy life beyond campus. Some of the core skills targeted in the bootcamp were developing a daily writing routine, strategic planning, and learning why and how to align work time with institutional priorities, personal values, and long-term goals.

Teaching

- Invited graduate teaching:

LEAD Summer School in Second Language Acquisition (July 2018, University of Tübingen, Germany)
Cognitive foundations of language learning and teaching II

- Courses taught at Michigan State University:

LLT 361	Second and Foreign Language Learning
LLT 841	Topics in Learning and Teaching: Advanced Quantitative Research in Second Language Studies
LLT 818	Eye-movement Registration in Second Language Acquisition Research
LLT 842	Vocabulary
LLT 860	Introduction to Second Language Acquisition
LLT 862	Advanced Research in Second Language Acquisition
LLT 864	Second Language Psycholinguistics
LLT 873	Quantitative Research in Second Language Studies
LLT 890	Reactivity of Think-Aloud Methodology in L2 Reading (Independent Study)

LLT 890	Implicit Learning of German Irregular Verbs (Independent Study)
LLT 890	Implicit Learning of Semi-Artificial Grammar: An Eye-Tracking Study (Independent Study)
LLT 890	The Role of Prior Knowledge in Implicit Learning: An Eye-Tracking Study (Independent Study)
LLT 890	Linear Mixed-Effects Modeling: A Methodological Synthesis of L2 Research (Independent Study)

- Courses taught or developed at other institutions

University of Brussels:

Cognitive Processes of Acquisition (invited seminar in the graduate-level course English Linguistics: the Acquisition of English)

University of Antwerp:

Development of an English language course for adult native speakers of Dutch. BIS Online was a constructivist language course that focused on the four communicative skills and the active role of the learner in the learning process. The course was provided online as a distance learning programme and covered all proficiency levels, from A1 (beginning) to C2 (near native).

A 25-hour practicum in higher secondary education in Flanders.

I taught English and German language classes to 16- to 18-year-olds.
